The History of The Henderson school district - Then and Now

Hear the history of public education in our town, as told by former students and teachers who were eyewitnesses to Henderson's History:

-During World War II when Henderson schools were funded as a part of The Rail Road Pass School District.
-When Rail Road Pass School District became Henderson School District and then The Clark County School District.
-When the community began to consider the possibility of a return to a separate Henderson School District.
